

Halving a Tennis Ball

Amoz Eckerson

2nd place, contrived category, 1996

A sound trigger located just below the racket was used to capture this tennis ball in mid-collision with the racket. The distortions of both the ball and the strings of the racket are made evident by the protrusion of the flattened side of the ball behind the racket.