

“Falling Drop Collapsing Onto Tabletop”

Jason Martin, NCSSM ‘91

Ripples traveled up the sides of a tiny water drop as it encountered a solid surface. The drop did not splatter, because it was released from only a few centimeters above the surface.